

ISEB Certificate in IS Project Management modules 1 & 2 (ISEB1/ISEB2)

As the ability to identify and implement change becomes increasingly important to all commercial organisations, and as their dependency on IS grows, more and more successful companies are focusing on increasing their capability in IS project management in order to implement the system changes required.

The ISEB is a division of the British Computer Society (BCS). ISEB was formed in 1990 to administer examinations, and award certificates and diplomas, in a variety of subjects in the field of information systems, including Project Management for IS.
